

DIES AT THE FINISH

Frank Gill Has Heart Failure After Running Second.

WON MANY RICH STAKE RACES

Long Shots Take the Money at Gravesend on Sloppy Track—Notasuga Lands First Victory of Year and Beats Mauvette by a Length. Dugan Hides Two Winners.

New York, June 10.—Frank Gill, a noted three-year-old stake winner two seasons ago, is dead.

After finishing second in a handicap at a mile and a furlong at Gravesend today, Jockey Scoville eased the horse up as he neared the far turn, according to the custom of all riders. Just as the boy was about to turn his mount around to go back to the scales, Frank Gill became dizzy. He whirled around in his tracks until the jockey leaped out of the saddle, and then fell stone dead.

Heart disease provoked by overexercise was the cause of the fatality. Owner Jack McGinnis, who had been in his fifty-fifth year because of the victory of his filly Notasuga at long odds, hurried to the scene of the accident, but was too late to see his famous horse alive. So Frank Gill was dragged away in the dead horse wagon.

The horse was a five-year-old son of Collier-Ravello II, and was the only representative of this stallion's get in America. He was bred by the late S. S. Brown, of Pittsburgh, and as a two-year-old was sold to McGinnis.

Won Rich Stakes.

He won nearly $50,000 in stakes and purses for McGinnis, but did not come up to expectations last year, with the result that he was sent to the stud for the winter. He was a prohibitive favorite in today's race, but The Squire, who was badly beaten in a selling race on Tuesday, came back with a runaway performance from start to finish, which enabled him to win by four lengths. Frank Gill did his best and got the place.

It was a day for upsets, and public form was not in good working order. The weather was disagreeable and the track sloppy. Chappultepec, odds on, was disastrously beaten in the Package Selling Stakes. Sir John Johnson cut out the pace to the stretch, where he tired and Royal Onyx, a 12 to 1 shot, came from behind and won rather easily by two lengths from McClellan.

Notasuga Wins.

McGinnis' colors were carried to the front in the first race by Notasuga. It was her first victory in nearly a year. She rushed out in front with Mauvette, and they fought it out to the wire, where Notasuga won by a length.

W. B. Jennings won his first race of the season when Pretend came home breezing with three lengths to the good in the second race. Zaccatcas, the favorite, ran second.

The biggest surprise came in the fifth, when Judge Ermentrout, a 50 to 1 shot, landed the money. He closed with a rush in the stretch, and won by four lengths from Chalmers of Chesterbrook, the favorite.

Mr. Whitney's Greenvalle, a strong favorite, was the winner of the last race. Pollie Levy led to the head of the stretch, where Greenvalle came on, and took the race by two lengths.

Dugan rode two winners, a second, and a third.

MRS. GOULD TELLS

TROUBLE TO COURT

Wife of Millionaire Witness in Divorce Trial.

MAKES A GOOD IMPRESSION

Airs Clashes with Husband Over Castle Gould Management—Declares She Bought Liquor for Household, but Adds That Coffee and Onions Were on the Bill, Too.

New York, June 10.—After dragging through the courts for the last two years, the suit for separation sought by Katherine Clemmons Gould against Howard Gould, went to trial this morning before Supreme Court Justice Dowling.

Mrs. Gould occupied most of the forenoon with her direct examination and an hour before adjournment Delancy Nicoli, counsel for Gould, commenced the cross-examination.

Mrs. Gould made a favorable impression throughout the day and went through the cross-examination with remarkable assurance and success. She answered the questions put to her without hesitation and frequently appeared to disconcert her questioner by the nature of her answers. Her husband reached the court room about an hour after the trial had opened and took a seat beside his counsel.

When the case started Mr. Nicoli, for the defense, moved to dismiss because the cause of action was not stated. The court denied the motion to dismiss.

Tells of Her Marriage.

When Mrs. Gould took the stand she gave her name as Viola Katherine Clemmons Gould. She described her marriage and her honeymoon on the Niagara. In answer to questions tending to show the manner in which they lived from the time of the marriage, she described their town residence in Fifty-seventh street and the Castle Gould property at Port Washington, L. I. She said that the furnishings of the yacht cost easily $100,000 exclusive of the orchestration, which cost half that.

Describing the number of persons employed at Castle Gould, she said there were 15 servants in the house, 15 in the stables, 15 supervisors, and 10 laborers, all paid by her. She said that beginning in January, 1938, her husband gave her amounts varying between $5,000 and $10,000 monthly, and that the next year she got an average of $10,000 a month. She said that when she returned to Castle Gould in 1938, her husband gave her $10,000 a month, and that the next year she got an average of $10,000 a month. She said that when she returned to Castle Gould in 1938, her husband gave her $10,000 a month, and that the next year she got an average of $10,000 a month.

Talked of Separation.

Mrs. Gould said that prior to 1936 she had three conversations with her husband in regard to his leaving her.

"What, in substance, did he say to you on the first occasion?" asked Mr. Shearn.

"He said if I wouldn't go on the stand in some litigation with an architect, he would divorce me."

She said that she next spoke on the subject in July, 1936, when her husband said: "He would quit me, and packed up his things and left." She said that about the middle of that month her husband communicated with her through her cousin, Elijah W. Sells, the accountant.

"What did he say?"

"That if I would give up the management of Castle Gould and not insult him before his friends, he would look over my bills and see what he felt like paying, and otherwise, he would obtain a divorce and would supply my co-respondents."

Mrs. Gould said that her personal living expenses while she lived with her husband were about $35,000 a year, and that she spent about the same amount for dressing and equipping herself during the five years prior to their separation.

Mrs. Gould read a statement of the amounts she said her husband gave her for various purposes from the time of their marriage, which footed up to $155,388.

Onions and Coffee, Too.

Referring to the sums spent for household purposes, Mr. Nicoli asked if any of it went for liquor.

"Of course, and for coffee, butter, vinegar, onions, sugar, and a lot of things," replied the witness.

"And oil?" asked Mr. Nicoli.

"Yes, and all that sort of thing," she replied.

"Did I hear you call it chicken feed?"

"Yes, you did."

Court adjourned until to-morrow, with the prospect that Mrs. Gould would be on the stand most of the day. She went away smiling.

JUDGE DEWEY LOSES SUIT.

Former Judge Cheerful and Says It May Be Best, After All.

Boston, June 10.—Only thirty-five minutes were required by the jury today to return a verdict in favor of the defendants in former Judge Dewey's $75,000 libel suit against five members of the Good Government Association.

The verdict did not deprive Judge Dewey of his cheerful spirit. This was his characteristic comment:

"Perhaps it is the best thing that ever happened to me. If I had got a million dollars I might have gone joy riding this afternoon and got arrested."

SLEEP BACILLUS IN PLANTS.

Mauritius Bacteriologist Reports Discovery to Pasteur Institute.

Paris, June 10.—The Pasteur Institute has received a telegram from Port Louis, Mauritius, saying that a local bacteriologist of the name of David has discovered an organism in the Euphorbia pluvifera and similar plants resembling the bacillus of sleeping sickness.

The Euphorbia pluvifera is one of many species of the genus Euphorbia. It is a shrubby, herbaceous, succulent plant, yielding an acid, milky juice, which is a powerful emetic and cathartic. It was formerly used in medicine, but abandoned owing to the violence of its effects.

CIGARETTES FORBIDDEN.

Possession of Them in Seattle May Subject Owner to Imprisonment.

Seattle, Wash., June 10.—The new anti-cigarette law went into effect last night. It is the opinion of the attorney general's office that any person who has been in possession of a cigarette in the State of Washington is subject to imprisonment.

The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition police will enforce the law strictly. No one will be permitted to smoke a cigarette on the grounds.

Negro Collector Dead.

John H. Deveaux, collector of customs at Savannah, Ga., died yesterday. Collector Deveaux was a negro, and a story was afloat some time ago that he would be displaced and a white man appointed to succeed him. It is expected that, following his expressed determination to appoint to Federal offices in the South only such men as were acceptable to the communities in which they would serve, President Taft will nominate a white man for the collectorship.

Will Open Auto Bids.

Bids for furnishing automobiles for the mail collection service in the District will be opened at the city post-office today. The government will purchase three automobiles, properly equipped, for use during the sixteen hours required to collect the daily mail.

When you have lost or found anything, telephone an advertisement to The Washington Herald, and bill will be sent you at 1 cent a word.

DISCUSS PEABODY FUND.

Large Amounts to Go to Nashville Institution.

New York, June 10.—The trustees of the Peabody Fund, who have been trying for four years to arrange a final distribution of the money left by George Peabody in 1867 for the advancement of education in the South, held a special meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria to-day. It was practically decided that to give $1,000,000 to the Peabody Normal College of Nashville, Tenn., and the remaining $1,500,000 to other Southern schools. No definite decision was announced, however, and none will be until the annual meeting of the trustees in October.

Chief Justice Fuller, of the United States Supreme Court, presided to-day. The absent trustees were Theodore Roosevelt, J. P. Morgan, Gov. Hoke Smith, of Georgia; Granville Winthrop, and George Peabody Wetmore, of Rhode Island.

WEST URGES CO-OPERATION

Tells Congress Heights Citizens of Their Responsibility.

Resolution Introduced by President Price Calling for Construction of Boulevard.

The Congress Heights Public Improvement Association held its regular monthly meeting last night in Congress Hall, Hamilton road and Nichols drive southeast.

Commissioner Henry L. West was present and delivered a short address, in which he asked for a more complete understanding between the Commissioners and the people upon matters pertaining to the public welfare, and assured the citizens that suggestions upon these matters would receive the earnest consideration of the Commissioners.

He likened the citizens of Washington to stockholders in a large corporation and urged them to make use of the power they undoubtedly possessed, as he pointed out, the absence of the suffrage abated nothing from the responsibility of the individual.

Commissioner W. V. Judson also delivered a short address. In part, he said: "Washington, as the Capital of the nation, must be a city creditable to the nation in its natural beauty, its architectural grandeur, and its civic efficiency. It must be a city that its citizens can be proud to call home."

Before Pines left the court room he made a statement to the reporter for The Washington Herald, in which he said: "It was a fair enough verdict. They could not have done any better with the evidence they had. God knows I am innocent. I hope the white people will give me fair treatment."

The taking of testimony was concluded at 11:40 o'clock this morning after fifteen witnesses had been examined, many being called in rebuttal by the State's attorney. Court adjourned until 1:30 o'clock and adjourned before 2 o'clock it again reassembled, and Commonwealth Attorney Brent opened for the State with an address, which was not concluded until 3 o'clock. He was followed by Attorney Nicol, who spoke for one hour and fifteen minutes. The closing for the State was made in a ten-minute address by Mr. Brent, who asked for a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. Throughout the arguments Pines stood at attention in the prisoner's box. During the recital of the crime as narrated by the State's attorney he appeared ill at ease.

James Dorsey, the third of the quartet charged with the murder, will be placed on trial for his life in the same court tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. One hundred and thirty-five talesmen have been summoned from this city, and it is expected a jury will be obtained with comparatively little trouble. Dorsey is the man whom Smith asserts stabbed Schultz.

About forty witnesses have been summoned by the defense, and an equal number has been summoned by the State. Many of those summoned for the defense have not yet appeared. It is expected that the trial will last for several days.

Miller Pays Tribute.

Poet of the Sierras Visits Bowdler When Indian Bride Dies.

San Francisco, June 10.—Joachim Miller, the aged poet of the Sierras, made a pilgrimage to-day to the massive flint bowlder near his home, which he has dedicated "to the unknown."

Here is where Miller has left word that his ashes are to be cast to the winds and near the stone is where his mother lies buried.

To-day's pilgrimage was due to the news of the death of his Indian bride in Modoc County, whom he married more than a half century ago. This young squaw Miller rescued from white lynchings while she was a girl in her teens and soon after he married her. When he left the country she married a miner named Brock and she has lived ever since. Miller's story of the saving of the girl and his life with her is given in his "Life Among the Modocs."
